AIR FORCE DISCHARGE REVIEW BOARD DECISIONAL RATIONALE

CASE NUMBER

FD-2003-00412

GENERAL: The applicant appeals for upgrade of discharge to honorable, change the reason and authority for the discharge, and to change the reenlistment code.

The applicant was offered a personal appearance before the Discharge Review Board (DRB) but declined to exercise this right.

The attached brief contains available pertinent data on the applicant and the factors leading to the discharge.

FINDINGS: Upgrade of Discharge, change of reason and authority for discharge, and change of reenlistment code are denied.

The Board finds that neither the evidence of record nor that provided by the applicant substantiates an inequity or impropriety that would justify a change of discharge.

ISSUE: Applicant contends discharge was inequitable because it was too harsh. The records indicated the applicant received two Article 15s. One for being disrespectful in language toward a senior NCO and for willfully failing to go to the recycling center and return to his duty section without unnecessary delay. The second one was for failure to go and, with intent to defraud, wrote a bad check. Additionally, he received three Letters of Reprimand, three Letters of Counseling and three Memorandums for Record for failure to obey an order, sleeping on duty, disrespectful towards a superior NCO, failure to go, dereliction of duty, unprofessional attitude, poor work ethic, violation of dress and appearance standards, failure to comply with instructions, unauthorized use of a government computer, and financial irresponsibility. The DRB opined that through these administrative actions, the applicant had ample opportunities to change his negative behavior. The Board concluded the misconduct was a significant departure from conduct expected of all military members. The characterization of the discharge received by the applicant was found to be appropriate. The applicant states that there were significant personal problems occurring in his life during this time frame, however, the applicant did know right from wrong. He also states that he was depressed and had a sleeping disorder. The medical records do not show that he was treated for either problem.

Applicant states that his discharge did not take into account the good things he did while in the service. The DRB took note of the applicant's duty performance as documented by his performance reports, letters of recommendation and other accomplishments. They found the seriousness of the willful misconduct offset any positive aspects of the applicant's duty performance. The Board concluded the discharge was appropriate for the reasons that were the basis for this case. Applicant contends that he should not be penalized indefinitely for a mistake he made when young. The DRB recognized the applicant was 22 years of age when the discharge took place; However, there is no evidence he was immature or did not know right from wrong. The Board opined the applicant was older than the vast majority of first-term members who properly adhere to the Air Force's standards of conduct. The DRB concluded that the characterization of the applicant's discharge was appropriate due to the misconduct.

CONCLUSIONS: The Discharge Review Board concludes that the discharge was consistent with the procedural and substantive requirements of the discharge regulation and was within the discretion of the discharge authority and that the applicant was provided full administrative due process.

In view of the foregoing findings the board further concludes that there exists no legal or equitable basis for upgrade of discharge, thus the applicant's discharge should not be changed.

U.S. Air Force Board of Corrections
SAF/MIBR
550-C Street West, Suite 40
Randolph AFB, TX 78150-4742

Subject: General Discharge Under Honorable Conditions Rebuttal Letter

To Whom It May Concern:

I first would like to thank the U.S. Air Board of Corrections for the consideration and review of my discharge upgrade.

I fell victim to being in the wrong place at the wrong time. Please let me explain, I was going through a troublesome time during my tour in Germany, a lot of things landed on me all at once, one after another something was going wrong in my personal life and professional life that I had no control over, and to top it off there was no one I could talk to about it. One I didn't have the greatest relationship with my supervisor. I didn't have a professional or a personal relationship with my supervisor. And at my previous duty station I did. If anything was going on in my life good or bad. At my previous duty station I could approach my supervisor, and he would help me. My last duty station the computer room members wasn't just my co-workers, they were my second family, and we treated each other as such. Since the duty station I came to in Germany new, and not yet establish, I couldn't build that bond with my co-workers, because the pressure was on my shop the computer room to take on all other computer room in Europe and bring them under our control. That meant all the supply bases computer room in all of Europe, had to be brought under our control, with no mishaps with in an 8 month period. We weren't equip for this task nor did we have the manpower, so a lot of stress was place on the members of my shop. During the 8 month process there was a lot of hours being worked and also a lot of tension in our office, everyone was kind of getting upset with each other, or stepping on each other toes. Me at 20 years old could not handle the pressure in the office and also handle what I was dealing with in my personal life at the same time. My fiancé call me in Germany and she said that the distance was too much for her and she wanted to break off the engagement. I was immediately crush, not only was I crush I didn't have anyone to vent with or to, sure I had met people over Germany, but there was no one I could poor my heart out and talk to. So of course like anyone else, who better to poor your heart out to then your family, So I called home, to tell my mother what had happen, and before I let my mother know what happen, I remember this day so vivid in my mind as if it was yesterday, I called home to speak with my mother, "who is like my best friend in the whole world" and before I can tell her my problems with my fiancé and the problems I am having at work she tells me she might have cancer. She was going to be doing some test for the next couple of weeks, and the doctor was going was going to let her know if it was serious, or what steps they could do to get rid of it. My mother is going to be fighting for her life and I could not be next to her side, my parent was station in Hawaii at the time, so it wasn't like I could catch a plan ticket, to Hawaii at the time so I the only thing I could do was call home like every day, I remember my heart beating a 1,000 time a second every time I spoke met with my mother on the phone because, I didn't want her to give me any bad news, during that time all I could think about was that I am going to lose my mother, one day I am going to wake up and my mother is not going to be there. I still was hurting from losing my fiancé but I had to suppress that, I also still had to deal with the my supervisor at work, I just simply tried to put that on the back burner, and my hardest deal with the immediate situation at hand the best as I could. I remember I would spend hours upon hours talking with my mother on the phone, because I didn't want to miss one second of not speaking with her. I had already lost my older brother, a couple of years earlier, and now to lose my mom. I don't know to deal with this stress. So now compounded with the fact that I am not happy at work, I don't get along with my supervisor, I am way across the world, away from family and friends, my fiancé dumped me, and now my mom my have cancer. I was so depressed and during that time, I could not sleep, I could not think, I could not eat, and worst I had to go into work and put up a face that everything is okay, and it wasn't. I was dealing with problems at all fronts. At 20 years old I had never felt stress like this, up until this point I didn't know what stress was, I didn't know to handle it, and plus I had no one talk to. It was to overwhelming for me, I remember during that time in my life I just felt so along, as if the world was coming down on me at once. I just really wanted to be away from Germany, I wanted to go home. I wanted to be next to my mother, and have her tell me everything was going to be okay. I backed myself inside myself, just completely close my self off from all pain, I remember I started drinking, and smoking, hanging out with co-workers and people in the dorms "which was something I didn't do" I mean it was nothing wrong with hanging out, or having drinks, but you have to understand, I didn't drink or smoke, at my previous duty station if I had problems there was always some one to talk to, and I didn't have to drink, I couldn't if I wanted to anyway, because in the states, 18-19 years old, I couldn't drink anyway, But it accessible in Germany, so I did, and this was my way to vent. I think at this point is where I of my run in really started to happen. Because of my expensive phone bills " sometime exceeding $700 & $800 calling home to speak with my mom, I bounce 2 checks "Note they where both paid in full the following day I found out about the check bouncing" Unfortunately, my squadron found out about them bouncing the same time I did. The people at work notice a change in my attitude, I wasn't showing up 15 or 30 min early for work, I was showing up on time or 10 or 15 min late. My uniform and boots didn't exceed Air Force standards they were just barley meeting them. I remember I was given a Letter or Reprimand for sleeping on the job, I was also given a Letter of Counseling for not running a particular program, "which was latter taken off the schedule away", also given a Letter of Counseling for not participating in the squadron physical activities one day "even though I remember I was feeling sick, I had a slight cold" and I even informed the NCOIC of the training activities, but my mind set during that time was nonchalant, and of course the squadron took severe action, after my few run in giving me a Article 15 for my past, and placing me on 30 days extra duty, which actually lasted two months, because instead of 30 continuous days, "like it is stated in AF regulations" My supervisor, and shop superintendent had me working 30 work days, which meant I had to do humiliating details around the squadron longer then what I should have been doing them. And during that time I got in some more trouble, an article 15 was given to me for leaving my duty station with out permission. I attend softball practice, is what I done, because I thought I was still apart of the softball team because no one had told me other wise. The article 15 was given which led to my discharge. Now I never was in trouble for drinking, doing drugs, using government credit card to purchase personal things, or anything major that a lot of first term airman get in trouble for. I wasn't a first term airman, at my previous duty station I received two 5 EPR ratings, I was sent up for Airman of the Quarter, I was given several awards, for Top Troop, and Sharp Troop, in Germany, I was promoted 6 months earlier than my peers, and also test for staff early, and past the test the first time around. I love the Air Force and I love my job, but the obstacle face with over in Germany, I didn't know at the time how I would get over it. My first shirt, basically order me to see a priest and to set me to the hospital to see a Psychologist. The Dr said that, I was definitely depressed and I had a sleeping disorder. Unfortunately it was a little too late because I could see the writing on the writing on the wall, I knew I was out the door. I think my first shirt just didn't what a suicide on his hands, because my supervisor had my supervisor to come to the dorms and other NCOs in the squadron I associated with to just start all suddenly showing up at the dorms and coming by my room. And I think that upset me more instead of kicking me out, why not help or find out what was having me to act out the way I was acting. No instead they sent random NCO in the squadron to ensure I didn't hurt myself. If the Air Force did any wrong it was not getting to the root of my problem, instead they seen me as a problem and got rid of me. And I do no believe that is fair especially, for this to be on my record for the rest of my life for a period that last 17 months. My discharge state that I have a General Discharge Under Honorable conditions, and the reason for my discharge is stated as "Misconduct". When I take my DD Form 214 to a employer doesn't state that all the accomplishments I received at my fist duty station, or the ones I received at my last, it doesn't state that I made received the Good Conduct award, or I was promoted 6 months earlier then my regularly schedule promotion, or that I passed the NCO test first time around. It doesn't state that I receive 2 perfect performance ratings, out of 3 ratings in my entire Air Force career. My mother once told me when I was younger that everything happen for a reason, and I think that terrible experience I went through, from being bombarded with tremendous amount of stress, to being discharge from the military, prepared me for the person I am today. I am not that person 20 years old man I was years ago. I am 24 now, a more mature, and wiser man then I was a couple of years ago. I would like for you to know, since I have been out the military I have never been trouble of any sorts, I don't drink, I don't smoke, I went on to receive my Associate degree in computer networking, and I am still on track to receive my Bachelor Degree. And my mother is alive and well. I know if it wasn't for the rough ordeal that I face and went through, I would not of been ready for the ordeal that I face now. But now I am equip for the struggle and the times I am going through now. I didn't move home after I was discharge from the Air Force, simply because my home of record, was not my home anymore, my father is military to, so when the Air force sent me home, they sent me to San Antonio, Texas, because I enlisted from Killeen, TX I now to this day, still live in San Antonio, TX and it was rough, being turned away from jobs, because of my discharge and really having to same comfort and living standards I once had when I was in the Air Force, I had to face all of that on my own. So if I wasn't for the stress and the tough times that I received when I was in I would not have been prepared to put my self through school full time, and work full time, and also pay the same bills I had when I was in. But I should have to suffer rest of my life with this on my record. I to apologize for the things I had done in the past, please if any thing fault me for being a 20 year old immature young man making some wrong decision not opening up, not being able to cope with the ordeals I was going through, and being away from home. I hope you can see at a young age that I was lost, and real depressed cause I was face with uncontrollable situations. But please don't have me suffer for the rest of my life, for my mistakes I made then. I ask that you please change my Discharge status from General Discharge Under Honorable Conditions to an Honorable Discharge. Thank You!!

Attach to this document are also Letter of Recommendation from previous co-worker and my former Instructor I had the privilege of working along side, during the tour I serve in Germany, and at school. They are dated in April because, I tried to reenter to service during the height of the war, I wanted to reserve my country, but was not along because I had not taken this process to get my discharge upgraded. It is dream of mine to reserve my country proudly, not for anyone, but for me, I truly want to serve my country, and in the US. Air Force. I ask you again to please change the status of my discharge from General Discharge Under Honorable Conditions to an Honorable Discharge. I do believe have paid for my wrong doings, and believe I would more of and asset to the Air Force now more then I ever was years ago. I am older, more mature, better educated, plus I have a since of purpose now. I thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE
