

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY
BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF NAVAL RECORDS
2 NAVY ANNEX
WASHINGTON DC 20370-5100

TRG
Docket No: 4097-01
25 October 2001

[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to the provisions of Title 10 of the United States Code section 1552.

A three-member panel of the Board for Correction of Naval Records, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 23 October 2001. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of this Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application, together with all material submitted in support thereof, your naval record and applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

After careful and conscientious consideration of the entire record, the Board found that the evidence submitted was insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice.

You enlisted in the Navy on 14 June 2000 at age 17. Thirteen days later you were diagnosed with a borderline personality disorder. The psychologist believed that this condition would adversely affect your future potential for performance of duties, and recommended your separation from the Navy.

Based on this recommendation, you were processed for an administrative separation by reason of erroneous enlistment. In connection with this processing, you elected to waive your procedural rights. Subsequently, the separation authority directed an entry level separation and you were so separated on 11 July 2000.

You state in your application that you wanted to be separated from the Navy because your girlfriend was pregnant. You have now discovered that she was not pregnant and desire to reenlist.

Regulations allow for the assignment of an RE-4 reenlistment code when an individual is separated because of an erroneous enlistment, and such a code is normally assigned when an individual is separated based on a diagnosed personality disorder prior to completing recruit training. Since you have been treated no differently than others in your situation, the Board could not find an error or injustice in the assignment of the RE-4 reenlistment code.

Accordingly, your application has been denied. The names and votes of the members of the panel will be furnished upon request.

It is regretted that the circumstances of your case are such that favorable action cannot be taken. You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new and material evidence or other matter not previously considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

W. DEAN PFEIFFER
Executive Director
