

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY
BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF NAVAL RECORDS
2 NAVY ANNEX
WASHINGTON DC 20370-5100

TJR
Docket No: 1672-09
18 November 2009

[REDACTED]

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to the provisions of Title 10, United States Code, Section 1552.

A three-member panel of the Board for Correction of Naval Records, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 17 November 2009. The names and votes of the members of the panel will be furnished upon request. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of this Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application, together with all material submitted in support thereof, your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies.

After careful and conscientious consideration of the entire record, the Board found the evidence submitted was insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice.

You enlisted in the Navy on 13 August 1990 at age 19, began a period of active duty on 26 February 1991, and served without disciplinary incident.

On 16 April 1993 you were referred for a psychiatric evaluation as a result of your attempted suicide and depression. While hospitalized, you expressed a strong desire to get off your ship and out of the Navy. Subsequently, you were diagnosed with a personality disorder and depressive behavior. At that time you were recommended for an administrative separation.

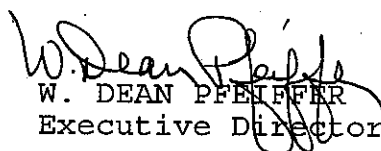

Subsequently, you were processed for an administrative separation by reason of convenience of the government due to unsuitability as evidenced by your diagnosed personality disorder. The discharge authority directed discharge under honorable conditions, and on 20 May 1993, you were issued a general discharge.

Character of service is based, in part, on conduct and overall trait averages which are computed from marks assigned during periodic evaluations. Your conduct average was 2.6. An average of 3.0 in conduct was required at the time of your separation for a fully honorable characterization of service.

The Board, in its review of your entire record and application, carefully weighed all potentially mitigating factors, such as your youth and desire to upgrade the characterization of your general discharge and change the narrative reason for separation. It also considered your assertion that you do not have a personality disorder. Nevertheless, the Board concluded these factors were not sufficient to warrant recharacterization of your general discharge or change the narrative reason for separation because of your diagnosed personality disorder and depressive behavior, and since your conduct average was insufficiently high to warrant an honorable discharge. Finally, there is documented evidence in the record which is contrary to your assertion that you do not have a personality disorder. Accordingly, your application has been denied.

It is regretted that the circumstances of your case are such that favorable action cannot be taken. You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new and material evidence or other matter not previously considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

W. DEAN PFEIFFER
Executive Director
