

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY
BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF NAVAL RECORDS
701 S. COURTHOUSE ROAD, SUITE 1001
ARLINGTON, VA 22204-2490

SJN
Docket No: 4930-14
8 May 2015

[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to the provisions of title 10 of the United States Code, section 1552.

Although your application was not filed in a timely manner, the Board found it in the interest of justice to waive the statute of limitations and consider your application on its merits. A three-member panel of the Board for Correction of Naval Records, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 5 May 2015. The names and votes of the members of the panel will be furnished upon request. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of this Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application, together with all material submitted in support thereof, your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies.

After careful and conscientious consideration of the entire record, the Board found the evidence submitted was insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice.

You enlisted in the Navy and began a period of active duty on 28 July 1989. During the period from 19 April 1990 to 14 January 1991, you received six nonjudicial punishments (NJPs). Subsequently, administrative discharge action was initiated by reason of misconduct due to a pattern of misconduct. After being afforded all of your procedural rights, you waived your rights to consult counsel, submit a statement, or have your case heard by an administrative discharge board (ADB). On 1 February 1991, you received NJP for failing to go to your appointed place of duty and dereliction of duty. On 11 February 1991, your case was forwarded to the separation authority recommending that you receive an other than honorable (OTH) discharge due to misconduct. On 12 February 1991, you received an eighth NJP for failing to go to your appointed place of duty and dereliction of duty. On 12 February 1991, the separation authority concurred with your commanding officers recommendation and directed an OTH discharge by reason of misconduct. You were so discharged on 14 February 1991.

The Board, in its review of your entire record and application, carefully weighed all potentially mitigating factors, such as your record of service, desire to upgrade your characterization of service, issues with alcohol and drug addiction, and medical issues. Nevertheless, the Board concluded these factors were not sufficient to warrant recharacterization of your discharge given your eight NJPs, two of which were after you were notified of your administrative discharge processing. Accordingly, your application has been denied.

It is regretted that the circumstances of your case are such that favorable action cannot be taken. You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new and material evidence within one year from the date of the Board's decision. New evidence is evidence not previously considered by the Board prior to making its decision in your case. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

ROBERT J. O'NEILL
Executive Director
